THE STATE

SCHEME FOR INCENTIVIZING ENTITIES INVOLVED IN STRAY CATTLE
REHABILITATION & SETTING UP OF GOSADANS

- I. Introduction:-Livestock plays an important role in the economy of the farmer. Almost every household in the State maintains a few heads of livestock of one kind or the other. With all other classes of livestock, there is no problem because they can be culled. However, there is a tendency to abandon cattle rather than assume responsibility for maintaining them after they become unproductive or for other reasons as they cannot be culled due to social /religious reasons.

- II. Problem of Stray Cattle:- As per livestock census conducted during year 2012 total cattle population of the State is 21.49 lakh. Stray cattle population as per this census is 32160.
- III. Existing Infrastructure:- Presently, there are 130 Gosadans (129 maintained by NGOs and One by the Animal Husbandry Department) in the State with capacity to house 10416 animals. At present these gosadans are giving shelter to 6498 animals. Government is assisting many of these Gosadans within its limited resources.
- IV. Legal Framework:- As far as the legal framework is concerned, provision of cattle registration exist for urban as well as rural local bodies. Section 11-A of the HP Panchayati Raj (Amendment) Act 2006 contains suitable provisions to ensure responsibility of Local Self Government Units. The various sub sections require that cattle owners are responsible for registering their cattle with the Gram Panchayat under the Cattle Registration Scheme for which proper identification marks are given. The Gram Panchayat is allowed to charge a registration fee and also impose fine on owners who abandon their cattle as stray. Similarly, Section 150-A and Section 324-A of H.P. Municipal (Amendment) Act, 2011 empower all the Urban Local Bodies to register and maintain records of cattle within the limits of the urban areas. In case the registered cattle are found stray, there is provision of levying fine on the defaulters/owners.
- V. Formulation of the Scheme:- The Hon'ble Chief Minister has announced in the Budget Speech of the Year 2016-17 that "the Temple Trusts and Charitable organizations will be encouraged to open Gosadans for stray cattle for which they will be suitably assisted from the funds of " Govanash Samverdhan Board". The Board will also award the best performing Gosadans providing care and Shelter to the abandoned cattle". Accordingly, this scheme has formulated with following twin purposes:-
